

INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCE OF
RESEARCH UNIVERSITIES

Session 7: Presentation from the Librarians' Contact Group

Speaker:

Roxanne Missingham

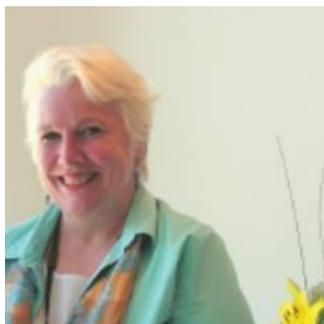

University Librarian, ANU

Group Lead, Librarians' Contact Group

Session 7: Presentation from the Librarians' Contact Group

One of the most active of the IARU working groups, the Librarians' Contact Group has recently launched its staff exchange scheme, with the first taking place earlier this year and another two likely to be completed before the end of 2023. It also plans to hold a series of webinars, focusing on UCT initiatives, open access and disaster recovery, and has focused topics such as educational reforms, interdisciplinarity and staff retention, attraction and development. The group lead, Roxanne Missingham, will update Senior Officers on these projects and the group's other activities for the coming year.

Speaker

Roxanne Missingham

University Librarian, ANU

Roxanne Missingham, FALIA, PFHEA, OAM, is University Librarian (Chief Scholarly Information Officer) at the Australian National University.

She is responsible for setting the strategic vision for the University's scholarly information resources and services which includes the libraries – collections and services, digital collections (particularly the Open Access repository), ANU Press and the Noel Butlin Archive.

Her career includes Commonwealth Parliamentary Librarian (2005-2012), Assistant Director General Resource Sharing Services (National Library), Director Reader Service (National Library) and Divisional Librarian CSIRO Wildlife & Ecology.

She is a passionate advocate for library collaboration to deliver access for Australians to quality resources. Her work on open access and consortia has increased access for Australian to world-class research outputs and digitised collection. She is currently a copyright lead for the Council of Australian University Librarians, chairs the Universities Australia Working Group on Copyright and is a member of many national and international digital research library committees.

She has served on a number of boards and advisory committees including as President and board member of the Australian Library and Information Association. She is a Fellow of the Australian Library and Information Association and Principal Fellow of the Higher Education Academy (UK). Roxanne has received a number of awards including the an Order of Australia award (2021), Distinguished Alumni Award, University of Canberra, Chief's Award, CSIRO Division of Wildlife and Ecology, Doreen Goodwin Award of the University of Canberra, Library and Information Studies Program, Australian Library and Information Association ACT Merit Award and Australian Library and Information Association New Graduates Coaches Gold Medal. She has been a finalist in the ACT Telstra Business Women of the Year.

She has produced over 200 book chapters, journal articles, conference papers and seminar presentations.